

Peter Leav
President & CEO

At BMC Software, integrity and a commitment to doing business responsibly is the foundation upon which we build our business. Part of that commitment is the effort we have made since our founding to working with a wide array of diverse business enterprises that offer quality products and services on a competitive basis.

Small and diverse businesses are an integral part of local communities. They help spur local economic development and entrepreneurship. Partnering with diverse suppliers that can provide competitive products and solutions helps BMC fulfill our customers' needs and expectations on a daily basis, and that leads to long-term, sustainable growth.

BMC's Supplier Diversity Program works with small, disabled-veteran, veteran, disadvantaged, minority, and women-owned business enterprises, as well as Historically Underutilized Business Zones (HUBZone). We also support organizations that foster such businesses.

In 2016, we partnered with the Women's Business Enterprise National Council, National Minority Supplier Diversity Council, Small Business Administration, and Women's Business Enterprise Alliance. In addition to participating in diversity conferences, we also sponsored scholarships with women- and minority-owned small businesses, and we nominated one of our business partners as Visual Enterprise Small Business of the Year through the Small Business Administration.
